EMORY UNIVERSITY | University Research Committee

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

The Albert E. Levy Award for Excellence in Scientific Research

Nominations accepted until 5 pm EST January 12, 2027

The Office of the Provost and the University Research Committee (URC) annually recognize outstanding contributions to scientific research of two members of the Emory faculty. This award was created by Edith Levy Elsas, a civic and academic activist, while she was a member of the Emory University Board of Visitors in memory of her father, Albert E. Levy. The award is overseen by the University Research Committee (URC).

- One Junior Faculty Award of $2000 in research funds
- One Senior Faculty Award of $2000 in research funds

(Each awardee receives a trophy)

Nominations, including self-nominations, may be submitted by faculty members from any school or unit of Emory University.

A complete nomination must include the following:

1. A one to two sentence description of the nominee's appointment status;
2. A 2-paragraph description of the impact the nominee's publications have had upon their field of study;
3. Separately, three letters supporting the nomination from members of the Emory faculty (persons outside of Emory may indicate support by signing letters submitted by Emory faculty members);
4. Representative publications: Copies of up to three peer reviewed paper(s) published within the last two calendar years.

Detailed information about the Albert E. Levy Award may be found on the URC website: https://www.urc.emory.edu/levy-award/index.html. Please combine ALL documents into one pdf per nominee in the above order and submit nominations to: urcappl@emory.edu with the name of the nominee and Levy Award category in the email subject line.

Notification of award recipients is anticipated in Spring 2027.
